ACE10 Super-Saver Registration Rates Expire March 27

(DENVER) – The American Water Works Association (AWWA) today announced that the deadline for early registration for the 2010 Annual Conference and Exposition (ACE10) is March 27. Individuals are encouraged to register early for the conference and save $100 in registration fees.

To be held in Chicago, Ill. June 20-24, ACE10 will feature a professional program with more than 550 presentations in 100 separate sessions and 14 in-depth workshops. Among the topics covered will be sustainability, infrastructure maintenance, climate change, conservation and water efficiency, water resources management, legislative and regulatory issues, recovering from economic recession, and public affairs.

Additionally, more than 500 exhibitors will be on-site at the McCormick Place, West Building showcasing the latest products and services available to help ensure safe water. These exhibitors will offer expert insight and hands-on understanding for everything from pipes to valves, meters to hydrants, engineering services to tank-related companies, membrane filtration systems to laboratory equipment, and security to wastewater. The New Product Technology Showcase will also return to highlight the newest and most innovative products and technology available.

ACE10 full conference registrants who register early to save will also have access to over three days of professional sessions, access to more the exhibit hall, valuable networking opportunities, and post-conference DVD Proceedings.

To register, log on to <http://www.awwa.org/ace10>. Individuals interested in learning more can also follow ACE10 on LinkedIn, Twitter and Facebook.

Media Note: Accredited members of the media may attend ACE10 at no charge. However, they are required to register with AWWA Public Affairs. For media registration, please visit the press room at www.awwa.org or contact Deirdre Mueller at dmueller@awwa.org or 303-347-6140.
