Individual 2012 Membership Application

Think water. Think AWWA.

Think water. Think AWWA.

Think of the possibilities.

Stay informed

Stay current on issues impacting the industry with top-rated water periodicals, scientific and technical information, manuals and books. As part of the AWWA community, you receive local, national, and global water industry news, updates, and insights to keep you up-to-date on breaking industry news.

Learn and grow

From AWWA's Annual Conference and Exposition (ACE), the most comprehensive and diverse water conference in the world, to AWWA Standards, providing requirements for design, installation, performance, and manufacture of water-related products, AWWA programs and resources are the best in the industry.

Shape how water works

AWWA acts locally, nationally, and internationally to advance and protect the interests of the water community. AWWA helps you reach out to consumers and build relationships with your community.

The Benefits of Belonging

Ensuring the quality and sufficiency of water today and into the future is a commitment AWWA renews daily. In so doing, AWWA positions you to meet the evolving needs of the profession, wherever the future leads.

That's what AWWA is all about—giving you the information and resources you need to deliver safe water to the world.

What's in it for you?

Section Membership

- Your section provides you a place to connect with fellow members and stay informed on water issues in your region.
- Sections host conferences and education programs and give members the opportunity to get involved in the local water community.

Subscriptions

Members receive the following AWWA periodicals, with both print and online expanded versions.*

- Opflow—Written by operators, for operators, Opflow presents hands-on guidance to make a utility's work smoother and more efficient. With insights about complex technical and regulatory issues to help operators make sense of it all.
- Journal - American Water Works Association—AWWA's flagship publication features peer-reviewed articles and information about all aspects of the water profession.

All members outside of North America (regardless of grade), student members, and members with APO/FPO addresses will receive e-periodicals only. Print periodicals may be purchased for an additional fee.*

AWWA Website

- Visit www.awwa.org for instant access to current water news, and explore how to get involved in AWWA activities and access resources.
- Visit The Water Library® for free access to more than 8,500 Journal AWWA articles and more than 3,400 Opflow articles. You can also research and download AWWA Standards at discounted member prices.

AWWA Communities

- Communities combine member expertise with AWWA resources in an easy-to-use online environment.
- They provide channels to disseminate information and promote industry-wide collaboration, as well as new networking and volunteer opportunities.
- Current communities include Conservation and Customer Service, with more communities developing around specific topics.

Technical Resources

- The AWWA Bookstore offers more than 500 books, standards, manuals, videos, and electronic products on everything from operator certification to membrane technologies to infrastructure development. AWWA members save up to 33% on all titles.

Training, Education, and Conferences

- At AWWA conferences, events, section meetings, and eLearning opportunities, you can learn from recognized thought leaders with years of practical experience.
- Members receive discounts on registration for all AWWA conferences, workshops, webcasts, and other events.

Networking

- Your local section provides a place to connect with fellow members and stay informed on water issues in your region.
- Local and national events give members the opportunity to present papers, exhibit, write articles, and serve on committees.

Advocacy

- As a member, you are part of a collective voice that helps shape the development of legislation and regulations that affect the water profession.
- AWWA keeps you up-to-date on legislative and regulatory changes, helping you with compliance issues and putting you in touch with key contacts at the local, state, federal, and provincial levels.
