About AWWA
Established in 1881, the American Water Works Association is the largest nonprofit, scientific and educational association dedicated to managing and treating water, the world’s most important resource. Through membership, AWWA creates products, services, and information that help utilities with day-to-day operations, inform the public, improve public health, protect the environment, strengthen the economy and enhance our quality of life.

Join AWWA
Individual Membership is for:
➤ Utility Employees
➤ Public Officials
➤ Public Health Professionals

Stay Informed
Water professionals like you must increasingly manage water in all its stages. Stay current on water-sector trends, scientific research, and important technical developments with subscriptions to Journal - American Water Works Association, AWWA Water Science and Opflow Magazine. These periodicals:

➤ Keep you informed on the new and best practices in the water sector
➤ Provide hands-on guidance to improve utility operations
➤ Provide in-depth articles on important topics such as water treatment, quality, and supply

Find the latest news on water-sector developments at awwa.org and through AWWA Connections, a bi-weekly newsletter that features community news, colleague profiles, career tips and more.

Connect With Water Professionals
Network with peers and meet water-sector leaders at conferences across North America. Take advantage of the opportunities to share best practices and learn what others have done when they have confronted a crisis. Make a connection that could lead to your next job.

Your Local AWWA Section
Your Section is your local connection to AWWA and provides:

➤ Local events and conferences
➤ Region-specific news and information
➤ Ways to directly impact local water issues
➤ Networking opportunities in your community

“One of the biggest values of AWWA membership is being able to network with other water professionals. Many problems have been solved talking in the hallways between conference sessions.”

Advance Your Career
Ensure your knowledge is on par with your responsibilities. Extensive training opportunities are available, both in-person and online. Take advantage of member pricing to save up to 40% on technical training materials, books, CEU-qualified courses, benchmarking reports, and more.

When you are ready to take the next step in your career, visit AWWA's Career Center to:
> Search new job opportunities in your area
> Post your resume so potential employers can contact you
> Access career resources

Make a Difference
Share your passion about water with others. From participating in a Community Engineering Corps project to creating and updating AWWA Standards, AWWA has the right volunteer opportunity for you. There are over 160 volunteer committees to choose from. You can also impart your knowledge by speaking at a conference or contributing to a magazine article or research report.

Help shape smart policies based on sound science. The Water Utility Council and AWWA's Government Affairs department work hard to make sure your voice is heard in legislative and regulatory matters. AWWA Sections gather feedback from members and reach out to local officials year-round.

“The participation in AWWA and the New England Section has been invaluable to me. Through my committee participation and event attendance, I have expanded my professional network, located important technical resources, and honed my public speaking skills. These personal and professional connections help me with every aspect of my job.”
