My participation in AWWA and the New England Section has been invaluable to me. Through my committee participation and event attendance, I have expanded my professional network, located important technical resources, and honed my public speaking skills. These personal and professional connections help me with every aspect of my job.*

Advance Your Career
Ensure your knowledge is on par with your responsibilities. Extensive training opportunities are available, both in-person and online. Take advantage of member pricing to save up to 30% on technical training materials, books, CEU-qualified courses, benchmarking reports, and more.

When you are ready to take the next step in your career, visit AWWA’s Career Center to:
► Search new job opportunities in your area
► Post your resume so potential employers can contact you
► Access career resources

Make a Difference
Share your passion about water with others. From participating in a Community Engineering Corps project to creating and updating AWWA Standards, AWWA has the right volunteer opportunity for you. There are over 160 volunteer committees to choose from. You can also impart your knowledge by speaking at a conference or contributing to a magazine article or research report.

Help shape smart policies based on sound science. The Water Utility Council and AWWA’s Government Affairs Office work hard to make sure your voice is heard in legislative and regulatory matters. AWWA Sections gather feedback from members and reach out to local officials year-round.

AWWA is much more than a professional association, and involvement within the organization transcends day-to-day or year-to-year committee activities. It’s about working with friends and colleagues to solve today’s water challenges to serve the next generation. To me, AWWA means friendship, education, leadership, and stewardship.”
